

AD TO HOOF IT TO CHAUTAUQUA

Dr. Moore, of Colgate University Tells Farmington He Enjoyed It.

FARMINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 22.—The widely made claims that the chautauqua lecturer is not practical went glimmering here yesterday afternoon when it came time for the Red Chautauqua to open its three day run. With the power off the interurban cars were not running at the time but the talent was expected to arrive and the start of the afternoon program was postponed an hour until the street cars got running and even at this the director, Arthur Barnes, did not arrive until the first program was about concluded.

Dr. E. E. Moore of Colgate University who talks on education at the Redcliffe chautauqua this season, set the gossip to rest that a professor is not practical and that his chatter is the talk of an idealist, for he was on hand on time and the only one of the entertainers. Dr. Moore came "over the hills" and says he enjoyed the walk very much.

Dr. Moore jested about the absent mindedness of college professors and the ignorance they sometimes evidenced in simple things when their minds were deep in greater things. "A good many of them lack balance," he admitted. "Education permits the gratification of wishes," he declared after reviewing the story of "Aladdin and His Lamp."

THRIFT TALKS FOR THE INSTITUTES

Prof. Wilson Will Address The Teachers of Marion County.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 22.—O. G. Wilson, Fairmont superintendent of schools and one of the state's leading educators will be one of the speakers during the teachers' institute that begins September 1 at Fairmont.

Mr. Wilson will address the teachers on Tuesday. His subject will be "Thrifty in the Public Schools." He has been engaged for this institute by John E. Norman, State Director of the West Virginia War Loan Organization with headquarters here. Mr. Wilson will not only urge the teachers to introduce thrift as a part of the curriculum, but he will also urge each teacher to sign a pledge to organize a Savings Society in his or her room. The goal is a Savings Society in every school room in Marion county.

This is a part of the government's plan to teach thrift among the children. They will receive the lessons at a time when their minds are the most receptive. The fruits of the campaign, who are expected to be manifold, will be harvested in the years to come.

Fairmont's Car of Army Food Lost

Nothing whatever has been heard by Mayor Bowen concerning the car load of foodstuffs which the city ordered August 8, almost two weeks ago. The food was ordered from Chicago and Mayor Bowen has been expecting to receive a letter at least in acknowledgement of the order.

There is a possibility that the city will be unable to get the food in carload lots, now that the food has been portioned out for sale through the post offices of the country.

Mayor Bowen is also awaiting a reply to his letter regarding the peach-ers which the city is contemplating ordering.
